Introduction

In today's fast-changing world, one of the biggest challenges we face is the unfairness in opportunities available to people worldwide. Things like where you live, how much money you have, your gender, and whether you can access education can really affect your chances of success. At Ai1Polaris, we see how important it is to bridge this gap. That's why we're building a platform to give everyone a fair shot at opportunities and resources. Our goal is to empower individuals, no matter their background, by offering a wide range of services in education, entertainment, investment, and business. By using advanced blockchain technology and creating an inclusive community, Ai1Polaris aims to shake up the old ideas of success and make a better, more equal future for everyone.

1. The Deep Gap Between Desires and Reality

Today, one of humanity's biggest challenges is the inequality of opportunities worldwide. At Ai1Polaris, we believe that breaking these chains of inequality and fairly distributing opportunities is the key to real growth and progress. Instead of focusing on the interests of a select few, we aim to open doors of participation and investment to everyone, no matter their level of knowledge, capital, or resources.

By doing this, we won't just see remarkable growth and success in our project; our colleagues and participants will also reap well-deserved rewards. This will be the best proof of our commitment to sharing benefits with everyone involved.

At Ai1Polaris, we dream of a world where effort and talent are the only measures of success. Together, we can turn this dream into reality and create a brighter, fairer future for everyone.

5. Economy Token (Ai1): Ensuring Stability and Growth

At Ai1Polaris, we have meticulously and delicately determined that the total number of tokens available to our ecosystem will be exactly 369,369,369 units. This number results from precise calculations and long-term planning, ensuring sustainable growth and a gradual increase in its value over time.

5.1 Fair Token Distribution

9%: Reserved for founders (locked)
4%: Allocated to second-layer managers (locked with gradual release)
6%: Reserved for exchange listings (according to a specific strategy)
54%: Available for capital investors (through staking)
37%: Reserved for other purposes (according to the project development plan)

5.2 Benefits of Token Locking

Preventing sudden oversupply of tokens and maintaining price stability
Creating incentives for long-term investors
Ensuring commitment from founders and managers to the project
Focusing on sustainable and long-term development of the ecosystem

5.3 Commitment to Transparency

A significant portion of the capital received is stored in an inaccessible fund pool to serve as a backbone for user trading activities.
Strategic investments will be made in various sectors to ensure the ecosystem's sustainability and maximize investors' profits.

A world has long been out of reach for many, until now:

Since 2009, we've seen a bunch of different blockchain projects come up that have brought in big profits. But a lot of folks have had a tough time getting into it because they don't have the know-how, there are high risks, and there are scams to watch out for.
The experts in this field mostly focus on building the technical side of things for Web 3.0 rather than thinking about what regular folks like us need.

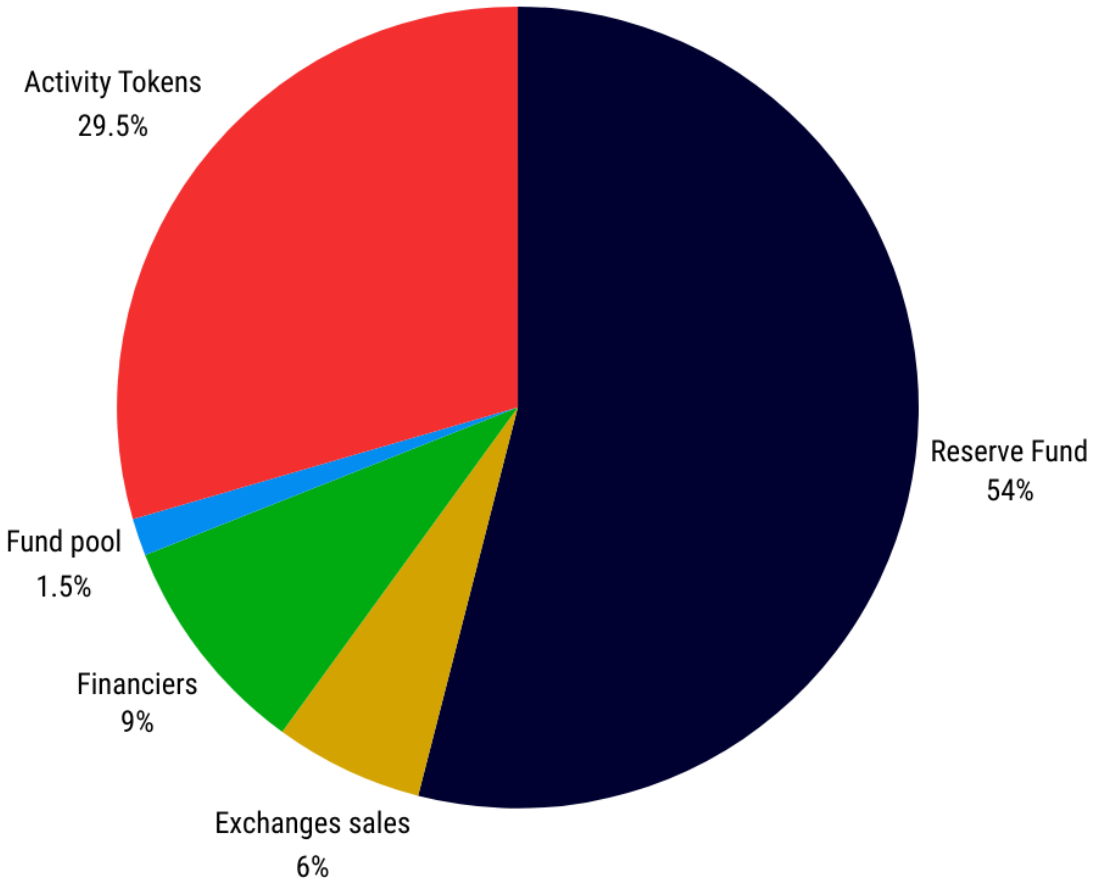
- Profitability: As Ai1's value rises, so do the profits for its holders. Increased demand for Ai1 leads to exponential growth in its value.

16.2 Ai1: A Smart Choice for a Bright Future

Holding Ai1 means you have the key to a world of unparalleled opportunities. This token lets you enjoy entertainment, enhance your knowledge, and profit from your investments. Join us and create a bright future with Ai1!



17. Distribution and supply

You can check out the exact percentage allocation for each section in the "Token Allocation" on our website. In our first phase of sales, we will sell 1.5% of our total tokens, which equals 5,540,540 tokens. Once these tokens are sold, a smart contract will calculate and distribute the tokens from the defined pools for each section based on the specified percentages. The funds received from buyers will be allocated to each section in proportion to the tokens withdrawn and will be used according to the pre-defined plans for each section. You can see the detailed breakdown of these allocations in the "Token Allocation" section on our website.
Additionally, 54% of the total project tokens are completely locked and inaccessible, except through the staking smart contract, which allows investors to mine them. We do not plan to have more tokens in the ecosystem than the number produced. This number will definitely not increase. On the contrary, we may even increase the value of the project's tokens by burning them as part of our future strategies.

18. What benefit do users gain from holding the token beyond its predicted growth?

Holding the token can benefit holders beyond just increasing its value by placing it in various staking contracts, which can result in earning a certain percentage, variable across different contracts. Through this approach, individuals can increase their token holdings by participating in our initiatives. Additionally, token staking can qualify them for attractive incentive programs that offer high and exciting earnings.
Moreover, holders in the ecosystem play a direct role in future project decisions through voting.

19. price stability

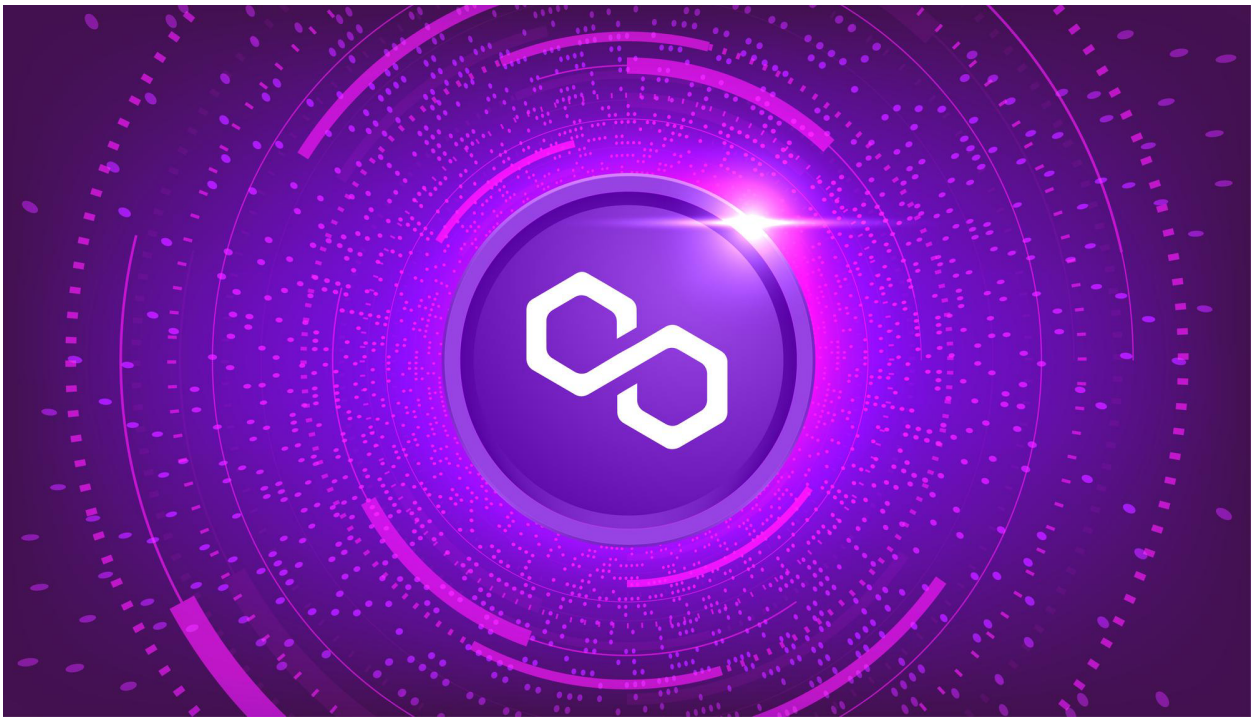
Firstly, in the main token contract, an anti-whale feature has been implemented. This prevents whales from influencing the price significantly by holding large amounts of Ai1 tokens, thus preventing pump and dump scenarios.

Additionally, through the use of smart tools, we will directly control the price during the ICO phase to ensure the ecosystem's progress.

20. Economic Stability

With an increase in the number of users and ecosystem holders, along with the provision of diverse services, the supply and demand for the ecosystem token effectively increase, thereby boosting its value. It is evident that any online project becomes more valuable with a growing user base, enhancing its overall value and shareholders' stakes.
Additionally, services within the ecosystem are purchased by users, generating revenue for the ecosystem.

All these factors contribute to money entering the ecosystem, covering development and advertising costs, and expanding the ecosystem. This recurring cycle sustains ecosystem growth daily and increases token value for shareholders.
Moreover, during the public offering phase on reputable exchanges, demand and supply intensify significantly.
Please note that our ecosystem differs from others in that our token is a utility token, allowing holders to use it within the ecosystem to purchase various products and services. This continuous cycle leads to increased revenue generation, further development, and ultimately continuous and enhanced ecosystem growth.



21. Blockchain selection

The ecosystem has chosen the Polygon blockchain to start its ecosystem because:

- It has the most executed projects after Ethereum, and a vast number of projects from around the world have implemented their projects on this blockchain. Polygon is currently one of the fastest-growing blockchains globally.
- The transaction fees are very low, which is crucial for users and ecosystem operators. Even during peak times, fees can be below 0.01$

21.1 Polygon supports projects

- Monthly, Polygon reviews projects launched on its blockchain, publishes a list of these projects, and supports them. It introduces projects that have received the most user interest to other users.

- Polygon promotes top projects running on its blockchain for free on its official website and Polygon Scan, and offers collaboration and token purchase suggestions to other users. This not only promotes Polygon further but also introduces the showcased projects.

- Polygon itself is a blockchain with strong technical capabilities and is continually researching, developing, and introducing blockchain technologies. These technologies can be utilized by projects on this blockchain.

22. The smart contracts

22.1 Token Contract

The ecosystem's smart contracts are built using the ERC20 standard and leverage the OpenZeppelin library. These contracts incorporate all the functionalities necessary for ensuring the ecosystem's success, including features like burnable and mintable tokens. In the case of token minting, it's only possible after burning a specific percentage and amount of ecosystem tokens, with a small percentage of the burnt amount being eligible for minting.

Pausable in the world of cryptocurrencies means that the owner or manager of a smart contract can stop (pause) the transfer of tokens or funds. This capability is useful in emergencies or to prevent suspicious or illegal activities.

With this feature, the contract owner can halt transactions if necessary and then reactivate (unpause) them once the issue is resolved. But it has been disabled in this ecosystem to reassure holders about the founders' good intentions.

22.2 Ai1ID Smart Contract

This contract also utilizes ERC20 and OpenZeppelin. It assigns unique IDs to users based on their wallet addresses on the blockchain and helps identify them in various operations.

22.3 Pre-sale Smart Contract

Similarly, this contract is based on ERC20 and utilizes the OpenZeppelin library. It ensures that funds are managed intelligently on the blockchain. When funds are deposited, an equivalent amount of tokens is minted, and vice versa. Unauthorized access to this pool is prevented, which safeguards against illegal deposits or withdrawals.
Together, these contracts form a secure and transparent ecosystem, using blockchain technology effectively to manage tokens and user identities.

22.4 Marketplace Smart Contract

Similarly, this section has a variety of products, each of which has its own type of contract, and they give different percentages to the seller in the stages of multi-level sales.The diversity of our market place products allows all sellers to sell their products and services and the buyer does not feel a shortage of products.

23. Security considerations

In this ecosystem, all allocated tokens are locked in smart contracts and inaccessible.

These tokens only become available for circulation once 1/5 % of the total tokens generated in the pre-sale smart contract are sold out. At the beginning of this phase, a predetermined percentage of tokens from each allocated pool, linked to a smart contract accessible to all, is withdrawn and made available to new buyers. This method ensures that no one, not even the ecosystem founders, can flood the market with a large number of tokens and disrupt the existing order. The founders have deliberately relinquished this capability to ensure investor confidence and project success.
Moreover, this approach guarantees 100% assurance for network integrity and reduces potential abuses, including preventing a 51% attack. This setup ensures that decisions on critical project DAO matters are pivotal and involve all investors in decision-making processes
